Dear Silas Powell:

Thank you for your letter of January 23rd and for the materials describing your COMPARATIVE AESTHETICS: A WORKBOOK. I do appreciate your asking whether we would be interested in considering the work for possible publication, but must report that the proposed book is not a possibility for us. Primarily, this has to do with the character of this house: we are a scholarly press and, as a matter of policy, we do not consider works primarily designed for the text market.

I'm sorry I cannot be more encouraging, nor helpful, but thank you for thinking of the University of Massachusetts Press.

Sincerely,

Richard Martin
